MILEXX launched at Tire Technology 2016

The Tire Technology Expo 2016 was a very successful exhibition for VMI. Visitors of over 30 countries visited our newly designed stand and they got a clear picture of VMI and the MILEXX. The MILEXX, VMI's new truck tire building machine was officially launched during our traditional champagne party on the first day of the Expo. The party to which our business contacts were personally invited was very well attended, and Meisjes met Smaak served the many guests with champagne and snacks.

Development of the MILEXX was started about three years ago. The new MILEXX truck tire building machine is an evolution of our existing mechanical tire building technology and includes higher performance and a large number of functional improvements. Reactions to the launch of VMI's MILEXX were very positive. The MILEXX was many times discussed during the many conversations at VMI's stand. The displays on which the commercial video was shown were often attentively viewed by visitors.

About VMI

People feel a real pride when they create technical innovations that keep manufacturers ahead in their markets. That's the passion behind the VMI Group and our work with tires, rubber, cans and care products. And the reason VMI is the market leader in complex production machinery. We employ more than 1,200 people around the world, with production facilities in the Netherlands, Germany, Poland, the USA, China and Brazil. These are people who dedicate constant effort to developing new products and solutions to meet current – and future – manufacturing demands.

So you enjoy fast and efficient production, consistent high quality output and profitable return on your investment. Not just on the nuts and bolts of the machinery – but also with long-term and personal relationships with our team of experts.

VMI is a wholly owned subsidiary of the TKH Group. For more information, please visit www.vmi-group.com.
